

Dear Commissioners,

I support raising the national broadcast ownership cap to at least 50% of national viewership. I watch network affiliates for their network programming, not for the sensational stories of murder and mayhem that are shown on local evening news. The national networks are doing a fine job of providing high quality programming with HDTV (or 480p widescreen) video and 5.1 digital audio. It is the local affiliate who act as a bottleneck for quality and chooses to broadcast mono sound and a snowy, ghost-ridden picture. Please remove the broadcast ownership cap and allow the networks to provide programming of the highest technical and artistic quality to all Americans, regardless of the size market in which they live.

Yours truly,

James Graham
